Sinclair TechHelp - APPLE

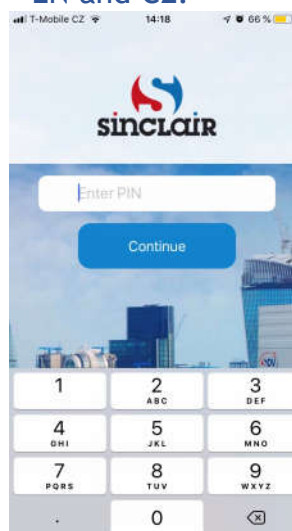

We would like to announce the release of a new updated version of Sinclair TechHelp app for iPhones with iOS operation system. This practical tool is used for identification of error codes and their brief analysis. The new version contains all new R32 product range.

Our app is available for all our partners to make the after sale service as easy as possible.

You can download it in App Store.

You have to insert activation code 100285, which is same for all language variants - EN and CZ.

It may happen that the „Continue“ button won't appear during the first installation or password inserting. Then push the „Home“ button twice, close the application and try to open it again. Everything should be OK.
